BELGRADE, March 18.—Yugoslavia took added defense precautions today
while Yugoslavian-German negotiations dragged on inconclusively and British forces continued to mass in Greece.

Latest reports reaching Belgrade from frontier posts stated 200,000 British troops are now ranged in the Greek Peloponnese.

The Berlin correspondent of the Hungarian newspaper Pester Lloyd reported that a conflict between Germany and Greece can be expected in the near future as a result of the arrival of British forces in Greece.

Seeks Neutral Course
While attempting to steer a neutral course, the Yugoslavian government speeded up its military precautions. Authoritative quarters indicated more than 1,000,000 Yugoslavian soldiers will participate in the spring military maneuvers.

There was still no definite official information regarding the Yugoslavian negotiations with Germany.
Some diplomatic quarters said they understood Belgrade and Berlin already have reached an agreement on economic issues and said Yugoslavia is now ready to sign a non-aggression pact with the Reich.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Edmund A. Whiteman of Phillips street tells PA News that 52 years ago, in 1889 to be exact, weather between about February 8 and March 18 resembled July so greatly that people kept windows open and enjoyed regular summer weather.
Then, much like Sunday evening's storm, it suddenly became cold and winter weather once more held sabb.

It's indeed an ill wind that blows no one good. Coal dealers and garage men did a land-office business yesterday. Coal dealers reported having to turn down orders and garage men couldn't fill them, and because they and gas station operators got rid of plenty of gallons of anti-freeze.

Bucking the icy blasts and the slippery travelling of today, one can hardly realize that spring is formally set to make its debut in this locality on Thursday.

Robins are becoming more numerous. According to a report from Princeton, five big robins were seen at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W.
D. Morrison within the past few days. Princeton folks are positive that spring is on the way.

Although the past two days have been extremely cold and uncomfortable for those who have had to be outdoors, it was not as cold dur-

Churchill Declares Nazi U-Boats Range Into "American Side"

LONDON, March 18.—Prime minister Winston Churchill today disclosed that German submarines and battleships in force have ranged far west to "the American side" of the Atlantic Ocean and already have claimed England-bound merchantmen sailing without convoy.

The prime minister's disclosure came coincident with his announcement that three German U-boats had been destroyed by Britain's armed forces, the largest bag for a single day since October 13, 1939, a few weeks after the war began.

"Not only German U-boats but German battle cruisers have crossed to the American side of the Atlantic," Churchill said at a luncheon of the Pilgrims' society in honor of the newly arrived American ambassador John G. Winant.

"They have already sunk some of our independently routed ships not

Nazi Bomber Crashes In Portugal; Intern Crew

When this four-motored German bombing plane was forced down and wrecked near Moura, Portugal, members of the crew set it afire, changed to civilian clothes which they had brought along and attempted to escape across the Spanish frontier, 36 miles away. Portuguese police, however, caught them before they reached the border and interned them. The photo above of the wrecked plane is believed to be the first of a German bomber of this type.

Italians Meet Little Success In Drive

Athens Asserts Attacks Beaten

Action Occurs In Northern And Central Sectors Of Albania

LARGE FORCE MAY NOW BE ENCIRCLED

By A. E. ANGELOPOULOS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ATHENS, March 18.—Italian forces launched powerful new offensives on the northern and central sectors of the Albanian front at dawn yesterday but met with little success, latest reports from the war zone said today.

All the Fascist attacks on the northern front were beaten back by the Greeks, these sources said, while on the central Tepeleni front heavy fighting was still in progress.

Large Force Threatened
One large Italian force was threatened with encirclement on the central front, the reports stated, adding that the Fascists on both sectors had suffered severe losses. The new Italian drive represented a continuation of last week's offensive which was led by Premier Mussolini, but which ended in a complete Italian debacle. In that seven-day push, Greek authorities claimed, some 50,000 Fascist troops were put out of action.

In the Tepeleni area fierce battles raged throughout the day and last night and were reported still in progress, with the Greeks gradually throwing a circle of men and steel around a strong Fascist force.

sailing in convoy. They have sunk ships as far west as the forty-second meridian longitude.

Editors Note: The position given by Churchill is approximately 600 miles east of Newfoundland. Earlier in Washington, reports had arisen that a long-range German submarine was cruising westward to ambush and sink munitions-laden ships bound for Britain a few miles off the Atlantic seaboard.

In Berlin, the claim was made that five armed British merchant ships totalling 35,300 tons—in convoy—had been sunk at an undisclosed location in the Atlantic by a single Nazi submarine.

Churchill's disclosure constituted re-emphasis of the gravity with which the admiralty regards the menace to Britain's life-line of shipping by the newly-concentrated submarine attack. At the same time, however, there was a note of confidence in his freely acknowledged gratitude for enactment of the lend-lease bill by the American congress.

There was even a stronger note of confidence as he told his cheering audience of the three Nazi submarines that had fallen prey to British naval units.

A motion was made to ask the township residents to refrain from making such calls as they are a hindrance to business.

the toastmaster of the occasion, Grand Knight Francis J. Augustine, who also welcomed the members and guests.

Speaking Program
Following the singing of "America," the music being provided by Ralph Monico and his musicians, the first speaker of the evening was introduced, the Rev. Fr. Edmund P. Rowan, assistant pastor of St. Monica's church of Wampum.

Father Rowan spoke on the theme appropriate to the occasion, St. Patrick. Rev. Fr. Francis E. Paul, assistant pastor of St. Agatha's church of Ellwood City, was the next speaker, and made remarks fitting to the occasion. "Catholic Action," was the subject chosen by Rev. Fr. Leo S. Watterson. Father Watterson emphasized the good points of a good Catholic organization and what it can do for young men. He also spoke on the activities of such an organization.

The principal speaker of the evening was Attorney Elmer O'Neill, who spoke in an interesting manner on the "Virtues of the Irishman." In his address, Attorney O'Neill pointed out the progress the Irish were making in this country. His talk, as well as the others, were well received by the audience.

Other guests present, who made brief remarks were: John J. McElwee and D. C. Ritchie, local recruiting officers of the U. S. navy. Lecturer of the organization, Owen E. Tighe, also made brief remarks.

Grand Knight Francis J. Augustine made the announcements that the founder's week for the organization will start with a radio program on March 23, and during the holy week, programs are being arranged daily. Father Enright of St. Bede's church of Pittsburgh, who was to have been the guest of honor, became ill and was unable to attend. However, his motion pictures on Ireland and the Eucharistic Congress at Budapest will be shown at a later date at the K. of C. Father Watterson closed the program with benediction.

Much credit for the success of the banquet is due to the banquet chairman, William Howley, Sr.; the general chairman, Lecturer Owen E. Tighe; Joseph Flynn, assistant chairman; the toastmaster, Francis J. Augustine, and a list of capable assisting committeemen.

But they declared that Serbian "die-hards" are still bringing utmost pressure on the government to maintain strict neutrality.

Moscow's Attitude
Victor Plotnikov, Soviet minister to Yugoslavia, returned to Belgrade after a three-months absence to inform Belgrade regarding Moscow's attitude toward a Yugoslav-German agreement.

(The London Daily Telegraph reported from Ankara that Yugoslavia's stiffening attitude against Germany's demands was the result of a Soviet note which is believed to have offered Russian aid to Yugoslavia in the event of German aggression.

The paper said the note was reported to contain three points: 1—Yugoslavia should not join the Axis-Japanese alliance because that would mean war in the Balkans; 2—If Yugoslavia is attacked Russia will provide military (aerial, technical and financial) aid; 3—in any event Yugoslavia should communicate her decision to Moscow 48 hours in advance of acting.)

REPORT HITLER MOVES 800,000 INTO BULGARIA

to permit German troops to strike at Greece through Yugoslav territory.

EDITOR'S NOTE: In a dispatch from Ankara the London Daily Telegraph said a Russian offer to aid Yugoslavia in the event of a German attack was responsible for the stiffening Yugoslav resistance against Nazi demands.

British quarters in Istanbul expressed confidence that British Imperial forces now are ready to meet and repel the anticipated German advance in the Balkans whenever it begins.

Large British Force

Latest information in Istanbul and other capitals estimated that 150,000 or 200,000 British troops already have landed in Greece and that another 100,000 are en route.

Turkey's attitude toward the rapidly brewing Balkan blow-up was a matter of keenest speculation. A Turkish courier bearing President Ismet Inonu's reply to a recent note from Chancellor Hitler was understood to have arrived in Berlin.

The German reinforcements were reported streaming across Rumania into Bulgaria after initial appearance of 15 Nazi divisions on the Bulgarian-Greek border failed to fulfill Hitler's expectations that this show of force would induce Greece to consent to an Axis-dictated peace with Italy.

According to the neutral diplomat at Istanbul, Greek rejection of Axis peace terms and defeat of the Italian offensive in Albania upset Hitler's plans which called for his personal triumphant entry into Athens April 15, to be followed by an assault against Turkey.

Those unforeseen developments convinced Hitler his Balkan forces were inadequate, this source added, and the Fuehrer accordingly decided to increase his army in Bulgaria to about 54 divisions.

a bogey in order to cause a panic and further excite the public for a plunge into reckless war spending.

London Denial

London, March 18.—British authorities today formally denied Washington reports that British Ambassador Lord Halifax informed the state department that a German U-boat is being sent to American waters.

Editors Note: In Washington, Sen. Wheeler (D) Mont., said he understood Lord Halifax gave details to the state department regarding the alleged mission of a German submarine off the United States coast.

Heard At Washington

Washington, March 18.—The United States government has received "reliable" information that a German submarine has been ordered to American waters, presumably in an attempt to halt flow of war aid to Great Britain, authoritative sources disclosed today.

Sen. Wheeler (D) Mont., leading non-interventionist in the fight against the government-ordered leakage bill providing British aid, said it was understood that Lord Halifax, British ambassador, had laid details of the submarine's mission before the state department.

No light was shed on the report by official quarters, however. State and navy chiefs refused to confirm or deny that the information has been received. Admiral Harold B. Starn, chief of naval operations, would only say "no comment." At the British embassy, the press officer denied knowledge of any such move.

PITTSBURGH, March 18.—Three firms today filed an involuntary bankruptcy suit against Victor G. Deissler, prominent Greenville, Pa., business man who disappeared last Feb. 3.

They listed claims aggregating $4,475 against the Greenville Refrigerator manufacturer.

ORDERED TO LEAVE FRANCE

BERLIN, March 18.—All American citizens in occupied France have been requested by the American embassy to leave as quickly as possible, D. N. B., the official German News Service, reported from Paris today.

Passports will not be renewed, according to D. N. B.

present form of government, or change it as desired, subject to certain legislative restrictions.

Under the bill's provisions, a city could change its charter in any one of these three ways:

By council framing a charter and submitting it to the people for a vote; a petition in which voters would ask the city council to place a specified charter proposal on the ballot; and by the city council submitting the question of naming a charter commission to the electorate. By the latter method, if approved and a commission elected, the people would vote again on the actual charter proposal.

Edmonds measure would make effective an amendment to the 1921 constitution in 1922, authorizing cities to adopt local charters.

BEIGHLEY-SMALL EVENT IN CHURCH IMPRESSIVE

Quaintness and dignity marked the beautiful candlelight wedding ceremony which took place Saturday evening in the College Hill Presbyterian church at Beaver Falls, which is of interest to many here, the bride being Miss Dorothy Aris Beighley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Beighley of 406 35th street in Beaver Falls, and granddaughter of Mrs. Margaret Robbins of Walnut street, this city, who was united to Frank Fuller Small, son of W. E. Small of New Brighton.

The vows were exchanged at eventide, on March 15, with the Rev. R. B. Atwell officiating at 6:30 o'clock. Contributing further were echoes of favorite organ selections, played by Miss Bess Demost of Beaver Falls. She resounded strains of nuptial numbers, preceding, during and following the service. Also, she accompanied as soloist, Mrs. Miles Sullivan of Detroit, Mich., who sang "Because" and "Faithful and True."

Entering on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage, the bride's blonde beauty was enhanced with her dainty white formal marquisette wedding gown, with lace madallions and full sleeves caught with snug bands at the wrists. Her shoulder length veil of tulle was held with a cluster of real flowers, matching her colonial bouquet of white sweetpeas and white carnations.

Mrs. H. Ray Daumiller of Beaver, cousin of the bride, as matron of honor, wore a watertail blue net formal gown, toe length and Miss Ruth Beighley, sister of the bride as Junior bridesmaid, appeared in a pink net, made similar. Their matching hats were heart shaped and their colonial bouquets, harmonized.

Robert McCoy, brother of the bride, served as best man and ushering were R. H. Daumiller of Beaver, Clyde Frew and William Hearnbauer of Beaver Valley and George Sellers of Munhall.

Giving a double significance, was the fact that March 15 also marked the 80th birthday anniversary of the bride's grandfather, C. E. Bell of New Brighton.

A congratulatory period and reception followed in the church assembly rooms, with a buffet lunch being served. Aides were Miss Blanche Hoyt of Beaver, Mrs. Fredrick M. High, Miss Margaret Small, Mrs. Paul Hutton, Miss Marcelle Pontious, Miss Virginia Herb all of the Beaver Valley and Mrs. C. Cookson of Grove City.

The couple are on a trip to Washington, D. C. and upon returning, will reside temporarily with her parents, until the completion of their newly furnished apartment, located at Oak Hill, New Brighton.

The bride, a graduate of Beaver Falls High, affiliated with Berkman's Clothing Store in Beaver Falls and the bridegroom, a graduate of New Brighton High is connected with the Babcock-Wilcox Tube company in Beaver Falls.

Further testifying to the high esteem in which both are held, was the display of beautiful wedding and shower gifts at the bride's home. Among those attending from here, were Mr. and Mrs. William Stump of Edensburg, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Robbins and daughter, Lois Jean and others. Many also were present from cities both far and near.

A series of parties have been given by friends and relatives here as well as others in the Valley region, for the young couple, since the news of their engagement was made known.

Many lovely gifts were received by the bride-to-be, and the hours were spent most informally, with a tasty repast being served at an appropriate hour.

On a recent date, a similar party was given for Miss Nelson, with her co-workers of the New Castle Drug company gathering in the Griffith residence on Richelleu avenue which, too, was in the nature of a miscellaneous shower.

The time was spent with various avenues of diversion, and at a suitable hour the group was served a tempting collation.

HITLER FACES A TWO-FRONT WAR

A DOLE HITLER'S Nazi Memorial Day speech at Berlin carried the old reliable line that "no Power on earth" can stop him. It is part of the Nazi system to bolster the legend of their own invulnerability and invincibility and to obscure Axis mistakes and setbacks.

There have been very grave Axis mistakes, but the Nazis have been curiously successful in keeping world attention focused otherwise. There was the failure to invade England last year. There has been the grievous failure of Mussolini's attack upon Greece.

That has been a serious Axis setback, bringing a two-front war upon Hitler and reducing him to the rank of stooge and vassal of Hitler today, with the full tale not yet told by any means.

Even as Hitler spoke so assuredly of what is ahead, British troops, landed from transports, were marching to take a stand side by side with the heroic Greeks—100,000 of them estimated already, with another 200,000 reported to follow.

Hitler's seemingly successful shotgun diplomacy in the Balkans brought those British soldiers there. Their appearance offers strong prospects of stiffened resistance in southeastern Europe, creates the possibility of large-scale operations in that area.

Throughout the war to date, with excellent strategy and some luck, Hitler and his generals have been able to avoid a two-front war against themselves. Now it looks as if it is on the way—and Hitler certainly asked for it.

His ruthlessness in the Balkans may turn out to be one of the big Nazi errors. When Hitler shouts that no Power on earth can stop him, he overlooks his own vaunted power, now spread so far over Europe as to be a constant menace in itself.

FARMS IMPORTANT IN STATE

We have become so used to considering Pennsylvania as an industrial state that we are prone to overlook that we also rank pretty high as a balanced agricultural commonwealth.

A Census Bureau report from Washington shows that, at the end of 1940, Pennsylvania had 169,027 farms, with 9,240,159 acres of land under cultivation, and another five or six million acres used mainly for dairying purposes.

Farm land in Pennsylvania at the close of last year had a total value of $864,199,795, which means it is worth on the average something like $60 an acre. The state had fewer horses, colts, and mules at the close of 1940 than in 1930, but the number of cattle had increased until they totaled 1,333,896. A total of 15,136,891 chickens and 515,269 hogs and pigs also showed increases during the ten-year period.

It is to be noted, therefore, that the Keystone State not only is important industrially, but that we go a long way toward feeding ourselves. So we boast of being a state of diversified wealth.

HARD ASSIGNMENT

Flight of Thomas D. Campbell to England on a mission for the United States government again brings to the fore the possibility that Washington has a big wheat deal on with Britain under the lease-lend measure.

Campbell is the Montana wheat specialist and one of the largest producers of superior wheat in the world. He gave Soviet Russia advice on its first five-year plan. For a month he has been in close conference with leading government officials at Washington and he is the first American expert on food production to go to England.

If Campbell's mission is to try to persuade Britain to take a large quantity of surplus United States wheat, it is a difficult assignment. U. S. prices are above those of Canada and Argentina, countries from which Britain is getting most of its grain. And if the United States proposes to lease or lend the wheat to Britain—in effect give it away—Britain will have to consider the deep offense such a course will give to Canada, which has a half billion bushels on hand.

It is possible that Campbell has only the general food picture of the British in mind and has been sent to report on what Britain requires of America in addition to wheat.

RETURN OF THE NATIVE

Changes that confronted Rip Van Winkle in the home of his young manhood upon his return from a 20-year sleep in the Catskills are not comparable to those that greet James Hazen Hyde in a Manhattan revisited after 35 years of voluntary exile in France.

Talented and rich, a darling of society in the days of the late Ward McAllister and Harry Lehr, he was at 29 the greatest matrimonial "catch" in America. His lavish expenditures at a ball he gave at Sherry's brought down upon him social condemnation so severe that he thereafter made Paris his home.

Now Mr. Hyde is back home from a Paris no longer livable according to his standards, revisiting at the age of 64 the scenes of his youth.

Still rich, cultivated, honored by the France of his adoption, he is nevertheless a lonely figure here. Stanford White, the great architect, who helped him plan the settings for the ball at Sherry's, is dead these three decades from a pistol bullet. And Madison Square Garden, on whose roof the killing occurred, is gone with the old Sherry's.

Gone, too, is the Waldorf-Astoria Mr. Hyde frequented; what was Herald Square no longer has the structure that gave it name; the face of New York is changed and changing, with elevated structures down, the Metropolitan Opera House altered in structure and ownership and vast new skyscrapers piercing the sky. Central Park remains but the Aquarium at the Battery soon will take its place with other remembered things.

As New York, as America goes, 35 years is a long, long time. More and more the visitor will realize it in passing days.

The new fad for vitamins which are said to sustain the nerves comes along just in time to build up the taxpayers' resistance.

These big league ball players who are holding out for five-figure salaries may have gotten the idea by reading the dispatches from Washington.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph.D.

ONE CHILD OUTSHINES ANOTHER

"Dear Mr. Myers—I have three little boys—4½ yrs, 3 yrs, and 8½ mo. My three year old has a personality some people are lucky to be born with. Everyone is attracted to him and always makes a fuss over him, while the oldest is more reserved and quiet and as a result, no one pays any attention to him. I have always tried to draw him into the picture when all the attention is on the younger, but lately I notice that he will do little naughty things, it seems just to spite me, to draw attention, whether it is a scolding or not. This always happens with outsiders, as in the home my husband and I treat them alike. Right in front of both children, some one will say they don't like Patty but think Jimmy is a fine little boy. It makes me feel so badly and I try and make it up to Patty so he won't notice. People say I am pampering him and that's why he acts as he does. It is really a problem I would like your advice. I don't want any bad feelings between the boys when they grow older.

"Will you kindly send me the books you have on understanding and guiding babies and young children? I am enclosing a self addressed, stamped envelope."

A Tactful Solution
I am glad to send this list of books and pamphlets. You will find a chapter on jealousy in my book "The Modern Parent," and a longer chapter in my "The Modern Family." Also I have marked the pamphlet on jealousy on the folder which lists my 15 pamphlets on the baby and young child.

You are on the right track, Mother. Do go on trying to build up the eldest lad. Be sure your praise and compliments are always deserved ones. Flattery will do harm. Help the eldest to excel in ways the other boy does not. Take your relative and close friends into your confidence and prevail on them to restrain their enthusiasm for Jimmy and to pay more attention to Patty. Set the stage so they will. Try to overlook Patty's being naughty. You know he is suffering and needing attention in order to feel more worth while. Help him find ways to show off that are socially approved such as serving the guests at your parties.

Defer to Patty
Dad should go places with Patty alone. Jimmy can have his own when he gets big like Patty. Find many ways to defer to Patty because he is "so much older." I have enclosed a list of books to read to these boys. Let Patty make the choices the oftener since he is bigger. You might read to one while Dad reads to the other. Let Patty go to bed half an hour later than Jimmy. Help Patty cultivate his own playmates so he won't always play with Jimmy. Let Jimmy play with children of his own age.

You seem to have a keen sympathy and understanding and I am sure you are a lovely mother. Just go on with your unbounded love and patience. Good luck.

Solving Parent Problems
Q How may I teach my child beginning to toddle not to run into the street?

A Go with him to the edge of the curb. Have him take with him a favorite outdoor toy. Tell him just once that he must not step off the curb unaided. Don't hold him from the street, if no car is coming. Let him choose and step off the curb. The moment he does, punish him. Attract his attention then to his plaything. Proceed in like fashion every time he chooses to step into the street. Budget your time so you will be with him when exposed to the street for several days, or till such time as you are sure he will keep himself out of the street. It can be done. It is the surest way I know to save the young child's life from the hazards of the street.

NEW YORK—Dr. James T. Shotwell, director of the division of economics and history of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, strikes an optimistic note.

LONDON—Lieut. Commander Reginald Fletcher, parliamentary secretary to the first lord of the admiralty, contends that the Anglo-German war issue will be settled in the Atlantic.

"It is in those gray, stormy waters that the decisive and deadly battle must be waged."

BERLIN—Reichsfuehrer Chancellor Hitler predicts the fall of England.

"The everlasting providence will not give victory to him, who merely with the object of ruling through his god, is willing to spill the blood of men."

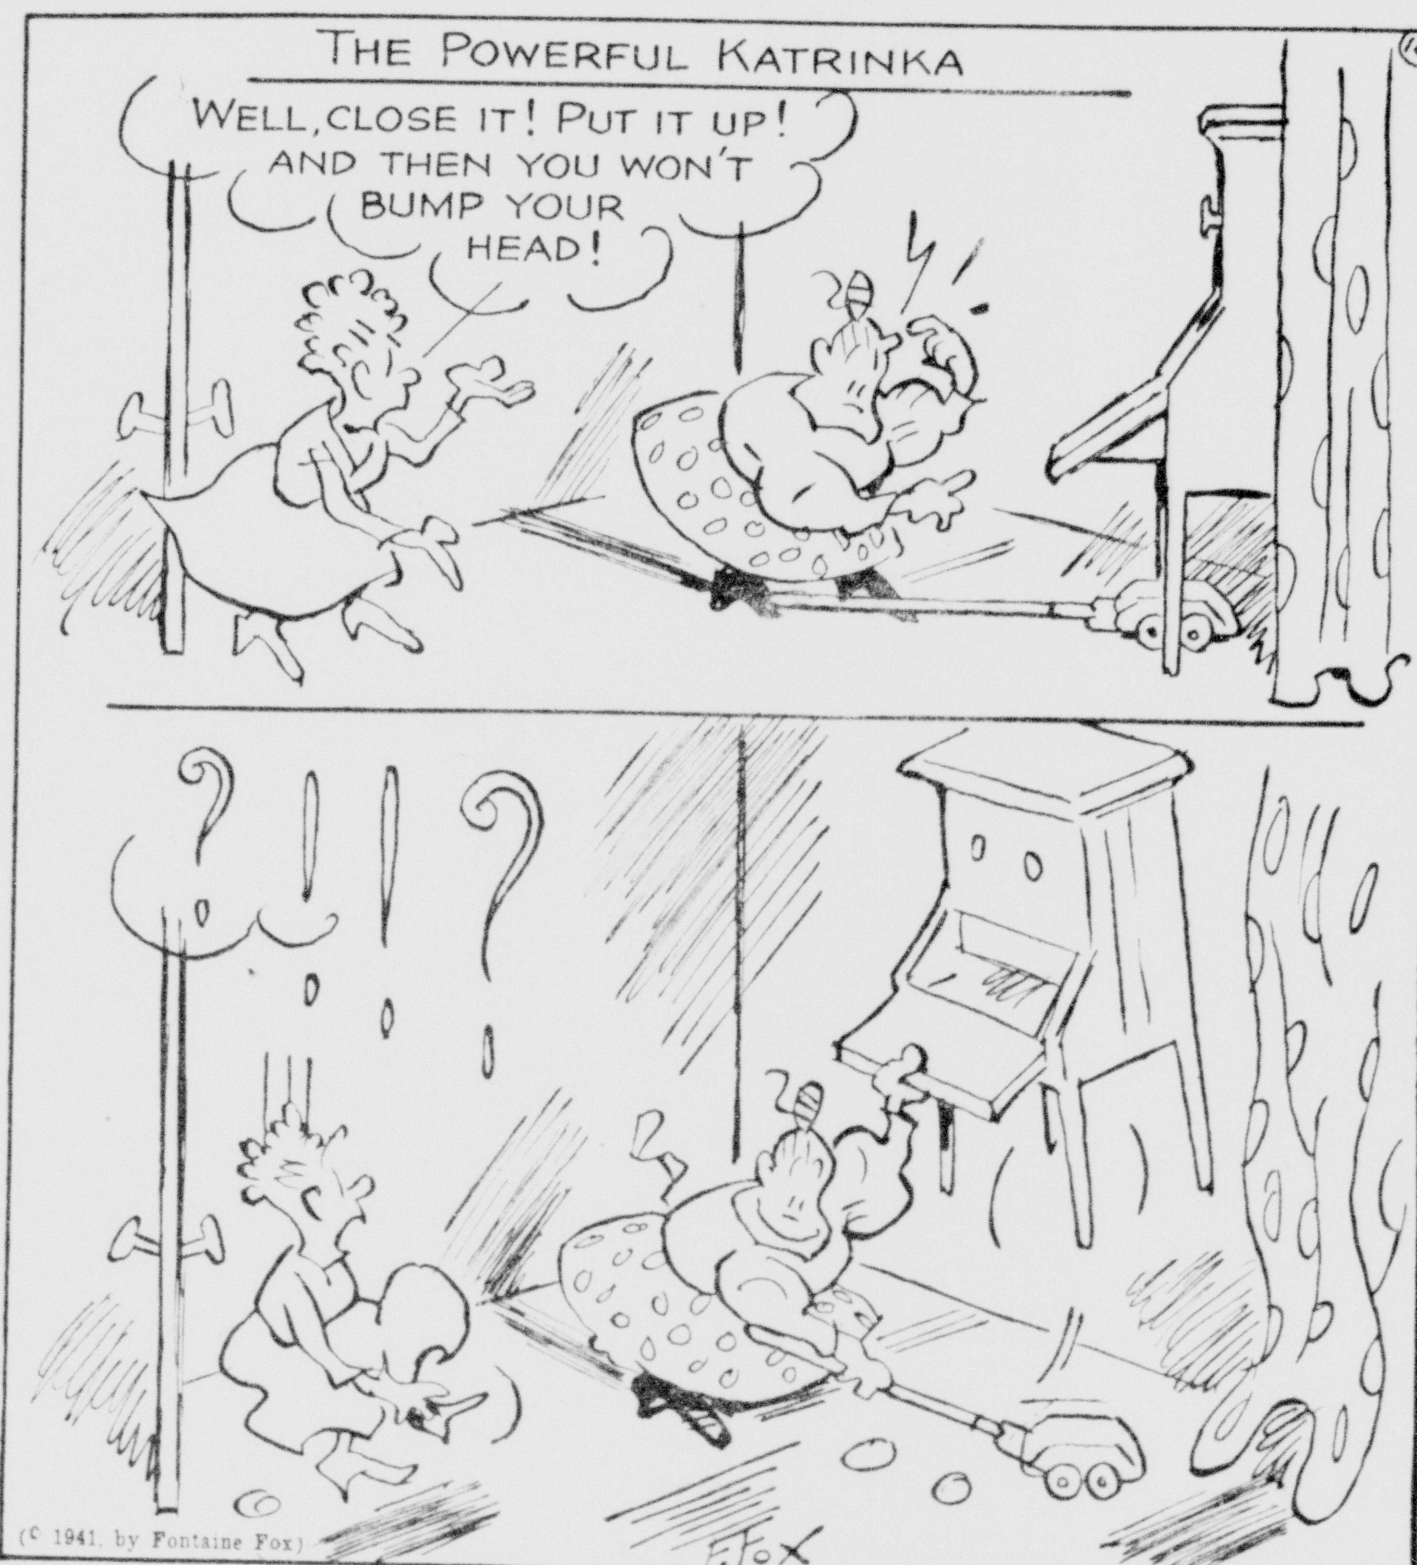

NEW YORK—Right Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, professor of fundamental theology, Catholic university, Washington, contends that "revolution without counter-revolution is futile."

A few days later, the line became flooded by high water, and the section foreman wrote to the manager in his report: "Dear Sir: Where the railway was, the river is."

The general impression is that collectors are most unpopular, but a collector friend of ours in New Castle, says that in a majority of cases, he is always asked to come back again sometime.

A friend of ours was reporting about noticing a certain local barber, who had been around the cor-

Nazis May Flood Market With Cheap Liquor Say Confiscated Beverages To Be Shipped In
Would Be Marketed Through Russian Seaports

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, March 18.—The war may prove to be a boon to American alcoholics if the Germans have been doing what Executive Vice President Harry L. Loomis of our National Association of Alcoholic Beverage Importers hears they have.

That is to say, the alcoholics presently will be in a position to get large quantities of certain classes of high-powered drinks at greatly reduced prices.

This will be fine for the alcoholics, but not so nice for dispensers of the stuff. The latter won't enjoy seeing a heavy slump in the prices they're charging at present. That's what Harry Loomis in Washington for now—trying to head off the slump.

Reports the importers' association receives are to the effect that the Nazis have confiscated astronomical numbers of bottles and hogshedsful of wines, cordials and brandies that they found in French cellars when they occupied about two-thirds of the country. France perhaps isn't so strong on whiskey production, but Denmark, Norway and Holland are pretty good at it. Denmark and Norway also distill plenty of aqua vite, which is potent enough to knock down a horse. And Holland has a world-wide reputation for gin. Personally I don't like the Dutch brand. It's called Bols and isn't as dry as I think gin ought to be to make a good fizz. It suits confirmed alcoholics though. And if the Nazis have been looting French cellars it's reasonable to suppose that they haven't overlooked Dutch, Danish and Norse warehouses either.

Our importers' association isn't particularly concerned as to the alcohol famine that the ruthless Germans must be creating in France, Holland, Denmark and Norway.

Bargain Prices

What worries the association is the prospect that the Teutons will ship a perfect flood of their ill-gotten refreshments across to the United States and sell 'em here at bargain counter figures. It appears that they've acquired more than they themselves can drink up in a long time, and the best guess is that they'll be more than anxious to dispose of their surplus to us, to the decided advantage of their German-American financial exchange rate. And, inasmuch as they got the fluid for nothing, they can afford to let us have our share of it at mightily attractive rates per bottle or slug.

It's true, they can't ship across the Atlantic. The British blockade won't let 'em. But the presumption is that they'll do it through European and Asiatic Russia, to Vladivostok, thence via the Pacific.

The labels on a good many of Europe's containers of liquors and liquors are copyrighted in the United States by American concerns. Wet goods received at our ports in disregard to our copyright-holders' rights can legally be seized and poured down our sewers. However, there's no present rule permitting interference with the admission of stuff tagged with uncopied markings provided the regular duty is properly paid. And the importers' association takes it for granted that the Nazis, having a shipload of American copyright-labeled bottles that they want to land on our shores, will be bright enough to change the labels.

The association is frantic to have this guarded against somehow. Chairman Sol Bloom of the House of Representatives foreign relations committee introduced a bill the other day which seeks to accomplish the desired result.

It provides that a container of some imported alcoholic liquid or otherwise must be so labeled as to indicate the country of its contents' origin.

How It Might Work

For instance, if a German exporter of a French cordial say,

The World and the Mud Puddles

CONCERNING CRIME

A hundred years ago the death penalty was enforced upon the individual convicted of many offenses. In other words, the governments of the different nations of the earth had the idea that a man or woman with a criminal intent to precipitate any offense should be blotted out—eradicating.

These governments, particularly Great Britain and these United States, have modified these penalties until today even a murderer may escape the death penalty. Charitable juries of the country recommend life imprisonment and both charitable courts and juries are often found who are willing to declare that the man committing an alleged crime was insane. Unfortunately, in the latter case, the criminally insane man often kills his keepers in the insane asylum, breaks loose and becomes a menace to others.

There is a lot of foolish philanthropy mixed in with the execution of the criminal Code. For instance, in many states, the actual killer is executed, but the man or woman who instigated the murder—planned and plotted it and paid the killer for his work gets off with a much lighter sentence. In North Carolina, recently, a woman was convicted of hiring a negro to kill her husband. The negro was convicted and executed. The woman was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Now the woman hopes to abbreviate her stay in prison by securing a new trial. The law of the State of North Carolina is such that the woman cannot be given the death penalty for her crime, although in reality she was more guilty than the negro to whom she induced the negro to commit his crime. Undoubtedly, she has every right to seek a new trial in the hope of a lighter sentence next time, but the law of the State of North Carolina and the law of the other States of the Union should be such that the punishment of such people as is this woman, should be as stringent as the punishment of the individual who actually does the killing.

HOW YOU CAN GET A $100 LOAN

REPAID IN 12 INSTALLMENTS AT A COST OF 5¢ A DAY

You can get $100 to pay old debts or other expenses if you can repay $9.75 a month for 12 months—No endorsers or guarantors needed—A simple, private way to borrow.

HAVE unusual expenses caught you short of ready cash? Do you need money to pay old bills? If you have a steady job, you can readily borrow $20 to $100—and repay in small monthly installments.

Suppose that you need $100. Find this amount in the first column of the table. Then read across picking out the monthly payment you wish to make. 12 monthly installments of $9.75 each, for instance, will repay a $100 loan in full. The cost, in this case, averages less than 5¢ a day.

You may prefer smaller payments. Only $6.97 a month for 18 months will also repay a $100 loan. The amount you borrow and the time you take to repay it determines the cost. You can borrow $25 for two months, for instance, for only 9¢.

This troop is composed of the following girls:
Joan Baldauf, Virginia Brincko, Margaret Buckley, Bette Callahan, Dolores Callahan, Lois Ann Deely, Laura Doyle, Donna Jean Flynn, Catherine Frazier, Mary Jane McGinty, Mildred Stinard, Peggy Stinard and Joan Wadlinger.

Officers are: President, Mary Jane McGinty; scribe, Margaret Buckley; treasurer, Joan Wadlinger; secretary, Virginia Brincko.

The first American tragedy played upon the stage is thought to be "Leicester," by William Dunlap, in 1794. It is also called "Fatal Deception."

The Human Side Of The News

By EDWIN C. HILL

ers, who shrink a human head to the size of an apple, preserving features, even subtleties of expression perfectly—the same having been the distinguished and perhaps appropriate ornaments of our best speakers back in the Volstead days.

Well, Jungle Jim relates, mournfully, these Germans, always up to some kind of deviltry, began catching little spider monkeys, whose heads required no shrinking, applying a clothes-pin to its nose for a few days and getting a human countenance undistinguishable from that of any Indian who had ever posed for a Jivaro artist. These imitations flood the market around Central and South America, and the helpless Indians find themselves unable to compete with scientific mass production. A well-prossed head used to bring around $300. Now they're a dime a dozen.

Jungle Jim, born in Virginia and reared in Montgomery, Ala., has made friends and influenced people in the jungle because of his nice Southern manners. No one but an engaging Southerner could have broken through the barrier of the fierce Cuna Indians, who live on the Pucuro, and made his way to that fabulous river of dreams, over the high cordillera of the Andes to the upper reaches of the Rio Attrato in Columbia, wider in some places than the Mississippi. Somehow the toughest Indians are soothed by a soft Southern accent.

It was a hazardous and desperate adventure, getting to the Attrato but there Jim found millions of patrol real ducks, black ducks with white bushy heads, wild turkeys with beautiful top-knots, the gato del monte, somewhere in the ancestral line of the cat, tapir-like mountain cows, black panthers, iguanas, a scaly eel-like green lizard which makes a Gila monster look like a canary bird, and a baby mountain cow that whistles for its mother when it is alarmed.

The take-off for this trip was in the Darien region, where dwell the strange spotted people of Tucuti on the Rio Balsa, a healthy and happy jungle village in which all people are spotted like a roan horse, possibly due to some glandular maladjustment, but whatever they are, they are right out of King Solomon's mines.

For this I have the testimony not only of Jungle Jim, but of an old friend, a New York newspaperman, who used to live with the spotted people and liked them. He said their curious skin-parkings made them all but invisible in broken patterns of sunlight in the jungle and thought he had a case of protective coloration in the human species, but scientists later told him this was impossible.

Jungle Jim thinks it won't be long now before the white men and the ob-men and the swift runners and great hunters of the jungle will be putting on store clothes and punching time clocks. The Matto Grasso region, between the Tapajoz and Xingu Rivers in Northern Brazil, may be a hold-out. There dwell the most savage Indians on the planet guarding fanatically the ruins of a once great civilization, possibly greater than ours in some ways.

Archaeologists, penetrating to its borders, have found highly sophisticated sculpture and ruins of beautiful temples, older than the Toltecs. In 1553 a Portuguese expedition explored this region, and in the library at Rio de Janeiro is its report of great, ruined cities and gorgeous temples. But when it fell the jungle crept up, and the Indians, for some reason of their own, decreed that never should a white man set foot on this soil. Countless explorers have been killed by the Indians, after battling their way through a savage wilderness to the gateway of this lost kingdom.

Elemental forces are always poised and ready to strike when civilization falls. Just now the white man seems bent on reviving his kingdom for the jungle and the desert. Down under the desert sands of Libya there are the ruins of one of the greatest civilizations of ancient days.

wants to land it here, he must so label it as to indicate that it's a French, not a German product. That'll make our customs officials suspicious of it. They'll have that cordial analyzed. It analysis proves that it's the same identical concoction that one of our concerns has a copyrighted-labeled monopoly of. It'll be recognized that the ostensible label's a bottle, and down the sewer that bottle will go instantly.

But whether or not that system will stand a court test is problematic. It will involve a lot of analyzing, anyway.

Anyhow, it all goes to show how wide the ramifications of this war's effects are. Who'd have anticipated that they are liable to influence the price of drinks in this country?

Hear Lecture On Christian Science

First Church Of Christ Scientist In Charge Of Public Meeting Last Night

At the cathedral on Monday evening a lecture was given by Violet Ker Seymour, C. S. B. of Boston, Mass., on Christian Science, entitled "Christian Science: The Revelation of Real Being." It was given under the auspices of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of New Castle.

In part, the lecturer said: "The purpose of this message is to show you how Christian Science works redemptively in behalf of every human being. Good is understandable. Evil is never understandable. Why consent to a more or less rudderless, drifting existence, when one can learn the way of achievement through spiritual understanding? This way is open to all, safe for all, glorious for all, not later, but now."

"In Christian Science there is no segregation of saints and sinners. In the one way of heaven on earth, none are wayward. Animated by intelligent hope, none are hopeless. Strong in spiritual understanding, none are weak. There is no law for base motives or failure. There definitely is a law for sound motives and sound results, not for some but for all. God's law of perfection is humanity's best friend, and all can learn to follow its leadings. The revelation of real being is the most practical thing on earth. Among other things it dissolves the unreal fetters of sin and disease, and annuls man-made laws of heredity. All this is divinely good, men can have in common, and in abundance."

Education
"When, in due course, young people reared in Christian Science go to college, they may come up against fashionable pessimism and even presumptuous atheism. Their spiritual ideals may be scorned by brilliant professors whose academic standard commands their respect. Whilst appreciating everything of value, and studying such subjects as are required, the young Christian Scientist should continue to hold to the perfection of the real man. He can be what is called a 'good mixer,' without getting mixed in his thinking, and without surrendering his ideals."

Jesus and Christ
"The appearing of Jesus was the appearing of the greatest educator the world has ever known. To those who could only partially follow his teachings, his words spoke louder than his deeds. Everywhere he taught divine truths, and everywhere he lived what he taught. Had his character not measured up to his spiritual understanding, he would not have been the world's greatest benefactor. His was no personal power, now vanished; it was the power of Christ, Truth, forever available."

Mary Baker Eddy
Mary Baker Eddy has brought to humanity the revelation of real being. She had spiritual vision, moral courage, love for God, and love for humanity so great that, for the last forty-five years of her life on earth, she gave up everything to establish the Cause of Christian Science for the benefit of all the world.

"Earnestly pondering the life of Christ Jesus, she discerned the spirit of his words, and the spiritual law which explained his healing works. 'Mrs. Eddy writes in Science and Health (p. 340): 'The divine Principle of the First Commandment bases the Science of being, by which man demonstrates health, holiness, and life eternal. One infinite God, good, unifies men and nations; constitutes the brotherhood of man; ends wars; fulfills the Scripture, 'Love thy neighbor as thyself'; annihilates pagan and Christian idolatry, whatever is wrong in social, civil, criminal, political, and religious codes; equalizes the sexes; annuls the curse on man, and leaves nothing that can sin, suffer, be punished or destroyed.'"

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Some people have the screwiest appetites. They eat nuts, bolts, screws, pins, knives, forks and spoons. Obviously such persons are insane. Strangely such a diet does not cause stomach upset in the insane. Normal individuals gag when they see a hair in the butter.

Some insane persons eat scrap iron with apparent relish. Children accidentally swallow pennies and marbles may pass through the body harmlessly. Sharp-pointed articles, pins, needles, may penetrate the intestines.

This laceration leads to peritonitis or abscess formation. Foreign objects are best removed by surgical operation. Digestible food is the best material to put in the stomach.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, March 18.—Pennsylvania's legislators are becoming concerned over the swift passage of time. Many predictions are already being heard that the 1941 session will continue into June and perhaps the state government will be in legislative session for the entire year. A great spirit of activity should be forthcoming any day now. Once the General Assembly gets busy it manages to move along at a surprising rate of speed. Present indications are that the legislature will adjourn sine die in May, as it did two years ago. In 1939 the session ended on Memorial Day after an all-night session.

baron, is still the power behind the throne in the Republican administration," says the periodical, which is edited by Meredith Meyers, Democratic state chairman. The publication outlined at length the controversy between the governor and his former secretary of commerce, Richard P. HANEY'S

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

SPEED ALWAYS IMPORTANT FACTOR IN TREATMENT OF APPENDICITIS

Appendicitis isn't serious if it is treated in time. Out of 100 persons who develop it, 99 will come successfully through an operation performed by a skilled surgeon. But if the patient's treatment has been delayed too long and the appendix has been allowed to rupture, about out of 100 operations, only about 75 will live, no matter how skillful the operating surgeon may be.

Here lies the danger of appendicitis in young children—diagnosis is so difficult that often long delays make the operation more serious and more dangerous.

An acute appendix doesn't develop overnight. When a child suffers an apparently sudden attack, a case study will usually show that although the child didn't complain of feeling badly, he didn't eat anything or if he did manage to get a bites down, they were small bites. And after eating anything, the child complained of feeling nauseated.

These may be the only symptoms the child will show. However, usually, he will also protest that his stomach is very sore. This pain may start in the middle of the abdomen instead of in the lower right side where you would expect it to be. More than once, when I was called to see a child and found him seriously ill with appendicitis, the mother would protest, "But Doctor, his pain wasn't down where his appendix is."

In most cases, even though the pain is in the middle of the abdomen, if you press in the right spot, the patient will protest that the hurt is more on the right side.

Nausea is often the first really significant symptom. The patient may bring up his last meal, or he may only vomit green fluid. The pain in the abdomen will be more severe as the vomiting continues. If there is a sudden lessening of his pain, the change may only mean that the appendix has ruptured. This is generally accompanied at first by a reduction in pain.

A great many children have lost their lives because of the old-fashioned idea that eating green apples is always followed by stomach ache. Actually, there aren't many things that will cause pain in the abdomen in childhood, and so if your child develops pains accompanied by nausea and vomiting, don't try to guess what is wrong. Call your doctor. Let him do the diagnosing.

If your doctor diagnoses your child's pain as appendicitis and advises an operation, don't delay him. Speed is an important factor in treatment and every hour that diseased appendix remains in the abdomen, the danger increases. I recall a half a dozen times in my own experience when I had to get a preacher or a priest to persuade a family to let me operate. This is a dreadful waste of time when loss of even half an hour may mean death.

Hunt Saboteurs Who Caused Rail Wreck At Baden

Six Agencies Take Up Search

Wreck Death Toll Mounts To Five As Another Victim Is Found

REWARD OF $5,000 IS POSTED BY RAILROAD

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, March 18.—A reward of $5,000 was offered today as federal, state and private authorities intensified their search for the saboteurs who, under the cloak of a near-blizzard, plunged the Pennsylvania Railroad's Buckeye limited into the Ohio river with a toll of five killed and 114 injured.

Preliminary investigation revealed without a doubt, officials declared, that saboteurs had removed the spikes from one rail and pushed it out of line so that the Buckeye, traveling at 60 miles an hour, hurtled down a 40-foot embankment.

The railroad posted its reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a person or persons responsible for the wrecking.

Death Toll Five

The death toll mounted to five late yesterday when, 17 hours after the cruel accident, the body of Conrad Lebel, 50, of Cleveland, was found in the water-filled smoking car.

The other dead were Engineer A. L. Weigel, 57, Alliance, O., crushed in his cab when tons of coal drove in from the fuel tender; Mrs. Rose Jagielski, 27, Pittsburgh; H. C. Kennedy, Pittsburgh; and Donald McDonald, nine-months-old son of Mrs. Elizabeth McDonald, Altoona, who was herself in serious condition in a hospital.

The six forces at work attempting to solve the wreck were the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Interstate Commerce Commission, Pennsylvania Railroad Police, Pennsylvania Motor Police, the Public Utility Commission and Beaver county authorities. S. K. McKee, in charge of FBI offices at Pittsburgh said:

"We are in under a new federal statute, passed in 1940, covering wrecking or attempts to wreck trains in interstate commerce. The penalty for conviction is 20 years in prison or $10,000 fine, or both, with the death sentence or life imprisonment in event anyone is killed."

"I am not at liberty to tell you whether we have any information which will lead to an arrest. Neither can I tell you what other agencies are doing."

Council Takes No Action On Truck Weight Limiting

Council convened today in city hall and decided not to take any action on the request of Milton Bickett, P. & L. E. railroad representative that the city formally ally itself in opposition to a bill introduced in the state house which if adopted would permit an increase in the gross weight of trucks in Pennsylvania.

Visitor Here On Ill-Fated Train

Miss Ann Theis, of New Kensington, and a victim of the train wreck near Baden, was enroute to her home from visiting with Mr. and Mrs. George Reider of Wilmington avenue, this city where she was a house guest for a few days.

Miss Theis had accompanied friends by automobile as far as Rochester, where she boarded the ill-fated train. She happened to be in the coach that rolled over on its end, but didn't go into the river. Upon being taken to a Pittsburgh hospital where medical attention was given for bruises and shock, it was found her injuries were not of a serious nature. She was discharged on Monday and taken to her residence in New Kensington.

Lawrence County Truckers pointed out that other states now permit higher weight, New York allows 58,000 pounds gross, New Jersey, 60,000 pounds gross and this state only wants to raise the weight to 50,000 pounds gross. The limit now is 39,000 pounds gross.

City Engineer Glenn R. Throop gave as his opinion that proposed weight, distributed 40 percent on the front wheels and 60 percent on the rear wheels, would not injure streets. Throop also pointed out

Gives Vivid Story Of Train Wreck And Rescue Work

Bruised and shaken from his terrifying experience in the wrecked P. R. R. "Buckeye Limited" on Sunday night near Baden, Homer Lee Winnagle of Warren, O., nephew of H. Lee and E. D. Marvin of New Castle, stopped at his uncle's store on Mercer street Monday on his way back to Warren, O. His trip to New York City was interrupted by an accident which might have cost him his life.

"I was in bed about nine o'clock," said Mr. Winnagle. About nine o'clock we had pulled out of Rochester and were headed for Pittsburgh. Near Baden, the sleeper in which I had a berth began to roll and bounce. I was thrown against the head of the berth and an instant later I was thrown out onto the floor of the car."

Hangs On Brink
The sleeper was on a crazy angle and I was afraid it was going to topple over. I hurriedly put on my clothes over my pajamas and grabbed my shoes and got outside the car.

"The scene was one of indescribable horror. Two of the coaches had rolled down a forty foot embankment and one of them was almost covered with the waters of the Ohio River. It was snowing, the wind was blowing a gale and the only light was that of the mills across the river. Crawling down the rest of the embankment from where my car was I managed to get up onto the upturned side of the coach which was in the water. I smashed in a window and inside was a sight I never want to see again. Men and women were hanging to the baggage racks to escape being drowned. The water was up to their necks and they were crying piteously for help.

Got Women Out
I managed to get a couple of women out through the broken window. A little later I smashed the end window and got a brakeman named Sims out. He was hurt but was conscious enough to give me a hand.

"We went along the coach breaking the window and succeeded in getting a number of the passengers out. The baggage-man had both legs broken but we managed to get him out and lay him on the upturned side of the car. It was useless to try and pass him out to the men on the bank for the embankment was too steep to carry him up in the condition he was. One woman we pulled out must have weighed 250 pounds and we knew it would be impossible to pass her over to the men on the bank. We laid her down along side of the baggage man and told her to hang onto him and for him to hold onto the window frame.

"An icy wind was blowing and the women we pulled out of the car were suffering agonies from the combination of water and cold. All along the train we could hear cries for help and other passengers who were not hurt were aiding passengers who were. Apparently there were no houses in the vicinity and we only hoped the rescue trains would get there before people died from exposure.

No Time Recollection
"I don't know how long it took us to get those people out of the submerged car. They were hanging to the baggage rack up near the ceiling and from the angle the car was lying they had to swing over from the baggage rack to the window we had broken."

"Men passengers who were uninjured gave up their coats to women who were soaked from the river water. We got blankets from the sleeper and wrapped some of them in and after a time rescue trains came along. I waited for a time and went into Pittsburgh on the last rescue train."

"They tell me four people died and about 107 were injured. I wouldn't know. Sims and I were too busy on the side of that car pulling people out and hoping the car wouldn't slide the rest of the way into the river to know. I do know that when we quit pulling people out of the car there were no more alive in it."

"The tender telescoped the engine and upset tons of coal over the cab killing the engineer. Out on the embankment was a scene of horror. Injured men and women groaning in agony and nearly perishing with the cold. Volunteers made their appearance and helped as much as they could.

Mr. Winnagle was on his way to the division offices of the Packard Electric Company in New York City. Had he been in the diner, or the smoking car he might have been killed or seriously injured. Fortunately the sleeper did not go all the way down the embankment but stopped short of the waters edge. Mr. Winnagle left for Warren, O., late Monday afternoon to get some sleep. He spent Sunday night in the Fort Pitt hotel but got little sleep the shock of the accident and the memory of the scenes of horror keeping him awake.

All Unemployed Urged To Register

Should Register At Employment Office In New Castle At Once

An appeal to workers throughout Pennsylvania to register at once with the nearest State employment office was issued today by Ernest Kelly, Executive Director, Bureau of Employment and Unemployment Compensation. He said that by April 15 the Pennsylvania State Employment Service hopes to find out exactly how many workers in the State are available for jobs or training in occupations needed by defense industries and other types of business now expanding. "This registration is being conducted on a Nation-wide scale," he explained, "as part of the national defense program and is designed not only to get the unemployed back to work as quickly as possible, but also to insure that as soon as workers are needed in defense production they can be reached without delay."

He particularly appealed for the immediate registration of: (1) All workers in Pennsylvania who are unemployed and capable of holding jobs, and; (2) All employed persons in the State who have had experience in the following trades but whose present employment does not utilize the skills of these trades: In aircraft manufacturing—airplane sheet metal workers, airplane woodworkers, aeronautical engineers, and inspectors; in shipbuilding—ship carpenters, loftmen, boatbuilders, ship fitters, caulkers, and marine machinists; in machine shops and machinery manufacturing—machinists, tool makers, die makers, lathe operators, and tool designers.

The employment service does not encourage or desire workers who are employed in any of the above industries to register.

AROUND CITY HALL

Solicitor Robert M. White, Monday during council session, informed councilmen he had sent a letter to Attorney Charles Young of the school board saying that the school district objected to the compromise of taxes on the property which the city own on Superior street. White informed Attorney Young the property has not produced any taxes for any municipal authority for a good many years and the owners surrendered it to the city by deed rather than to pay municipal liens and taxes against it.

He asserted in the communication the property is deteriorating fast and unless it can be disposed of to someone who would put it in habitable condition, it will become a nuisance and will have to be torn down. White maintained he is satisfied that if the county, city and school district take an antagonistic attitude on the settlement of these taxes and taxes on similar properties, "some of us will get nowhere."

He declared the city had asked him to suggest a plan whereby the city can take possession of properties that were sold at city tax sales in the past. White asserted he does not know what is the opinion of County Solicitor William McElwee, nor what "your Attorney Young's opinion is as to the superiority of tax liens in tax sales" but on the authority of Gordon vs Harrisburg, 314 Pa. 17, "I am telling council that there is no way the city can take possession of properties on city tax sales antagonistic to the rights of the county and the school district to have their liens paid also."

"I assure you that this matter is a headache to me as well as to you and since the school district is taking the attitude that it does, there is nothing for us to do but tell Mrs. Gallagher that the city cannot make title to this property to her and let it lie there for another 10 years producing no taxes." White concluded by saying the city is determined to go as far as the school board and county commissioners will go in the settlement of this grave question.

Years ago, a former council (and possibly some of the present solons were members of that body) registered an emphatic bond to continue receiving all of the refund from the state tax on gasoline. Despite the disapproval, the city got nowhere. The cities of the third class now have taken up the matter and hope to win an equal distribution of the moneys. It certainly appears unjust that a man in the city pays for his auto or truck license, pays for driving a car and also buys gasoline, yet the law is so arranged that none of the money comes back to the city excepting through what little repairs the state highway department does on state maintained streets in the city. It has been asserted that the city pays about 67 per cent of the taxes in the county. Possibly this same ratio may prevail in money paid out by people of this city for auto licenses, operator's permits and gasoline.

REALTY TRANSFERS

Margaret A. Overbeck to Ellwood City Federal Savings and Loan Association, Shenango township, $1.

Preliminary plans for the addition to the court house were shown today by Architect Harry M. Wirsing. As yet the plans are roughed in only but with the suggestions of the commissioners and the court in mind, Mr. Wirsing will have a set of plans ready to present to the June grand jury.

The addition will be three stories in height, although going only to the present roof line. The difference between the three floors of the addition and the two floors of the present building is the ceiling height. In the present building the rooms are about 15 feet high. In the addition they will be ten feet high.

The plan as presently shown calls for a new office for the commissioners and the clerical staff, more room for the county treasurer, a new room for the county controller and judges' chambers.

April 19 has been pencilled in as the tentative date for the testimonial dinner to the State Treasurer.

Elect J. Harold Wagner which will be presented by Democrats of the county. This date is subject to confirmation by Mr. Wagner and will be changed if he cannot make it then. Plans are developing slowly for the dinner and it is expected that such state leaders as National Committeeman David Lawrence and Auditor-General Warren R. Roberts will be present. County Commissioner Joseph F. Travers is in charge of arrangements.

In a group of petitions to court, 13 in all, District Attorney John G. Lamoree asks for the forfeiture and confiscation of the beer, wine and liquor taken recently in a cleanup of speakeasies.

The district attorney has in his possession about 40 cases of beer, many bottles containing from a pint to a quart of liquor and considerable wine.

Pending the action of the General Assembly, no action has been taken by the county treasurer to postpone the property sales scheduled for April 30. A bill is said to be marked for passage which will postpone these sales at the option of the county treasurer, county commissioners and judges.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE
Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 quarts of urine daily.
If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys and it should be fixed.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Westminster Five Ends Drills Today

Titans Pepper Away At Madison Square Garden Hoops This Morning

FACE LONG ISLAND ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT

(Special To The News)

NEW YORK, March 18 —

Westminster college's high-spirited cagers concluded drills for Wednesday night's Metropolitan tourney game with Long Island University this morning in Madison Square Garden, scene of the colossal bounce bowl.

The lanky Titans were unusually sharp as they bombarded the hoops for well over an hour. The glass bankboards didn't hamper the aim of the Lawrence Countians. At the close of the light session, Coach Grover Washbaugh pronounced his squad, "ready and raring to go."

Will Use Zone

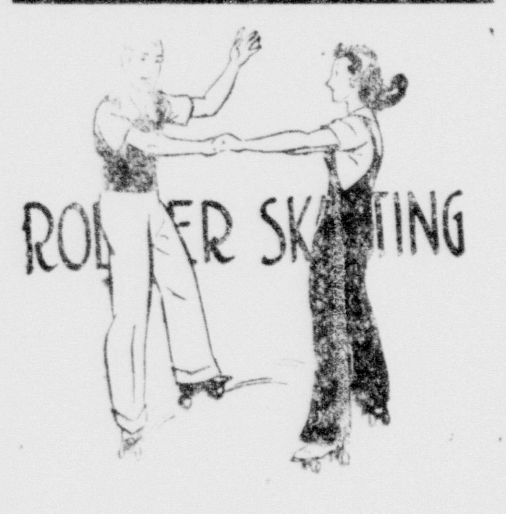

The Penns champs are set to meet a faster offensive attack than they can produce, but they expect to block the Long Island scoring with an effective circulatory sliding zone defense. If the defense fails to check the Birds, the Titans plan an immediate shift to a man-to-man style.

While most of the scribe figure that the Lawrence Countians have drawn the toughest first round assignment, the New Wilmington athletes disagree. One of the spokesmen summed up the situation in this manner:

"We feel that we know Long Island's style of play. We met them in 1940 and, naturally, have a fair mental picture. We lost 47-42, true, but don't forget the boy who beat us, Dolly King. He won't be around Wednesday night."

Long Island's attack is built around "Sl" Lobello, who has flipped 1,017 points during his collegiate career. Dick Holub and "Hank" Beenders are the Birds' defensive experts. The team has height, shoot accuracy and is well-balanced. Long Island was defeated by Duquesne and Michigan State during the season.

Westminster will shoot its fast-moving offensive attack in the hope of grabbing an early lead. The Titans' offensive style calls for lightning-like short passes, lots of cutting and blocking. On paper,

Gersons Defeat Collegians In Tourney Battle

Gus' Collegians Succumb To Gersons In Class A Game 31 To 22

GENEVANS PULASKIS WIN IN CLASS B

The Gerson basketball team playing a steady brand of ball all the way defeated the Gus' Collegians in a Class A City-County tourney game at Washington High field last night 31 to 22, thus entering the semi-finals.

For the kind of a night that Monday was, a large crowd nevertheless witnessed the games and got many a thrill.

In the first game the "Rens" bowed out of the Class B tourney, going down to the tune of 37 to 24 at the hands of the Genevans. The college boys led at the half 16 to 9. Sterrett and Blaine did the bulk of the scoring for the Genevans. Walls and Burris were the best bets in the "Rens" lineup.

Even Score At Half

The Gersons and Gus' Collegians were all even at the half at 12-12. "Rookie" Conik, playing perhaps his last game of basketball locally, before going to the army, was the sparkplug that put the Gersons in front in the final two periods, the former New Castle High captain and star forward banged in four field goals and a foul for nine of the Gerson points.

The Collegians made up of four of the Slippery Rock varsity boys tried hard to overtake the Gersons but could not locate the hoops effectively. "Bus" Strausbaugh and Tom Carey had the majority of the points. Sammy Bulano and Al Bucci with seven points apiece were also stars in the Gerson lineup. The Gersons will now meet the Old Furnace team in a semi-final game.

Pulaskis Win Game

Paced by Krupa, Teddy Kucharski and Presnar, the K. Pulaski Reserve defeated Princeton in a Class B game the final one on the night's card. At the half the Oaklanders led 22 to 12. The result was never in doubt, although the Princeton boys tried hard the final two periods to tally. Meyers and Dean had the majority of the Princeton points.

The Pulaskis now meet the Wash-Bear in a quarter-final game at the Washington field on Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock.

These Little Titans Stayed Home

NEW WILMINGTON, March 18 — And these little pigies stayed home," according to the nursery rhyme.

While the Westminster Titan squadmen are away at Madison Square gardens, March 18-24, trying for honors at the best intercollegiate cagers in the East, these five freshman squadmen were left behind, since the eastern competition enforces the three-year rule for players.

These "best freshman prospects" for next year's varsity squad include James Hall, Lowellville, O.; Ray Fredericks, New Castle; James Bennett, Edgewood; Robert White, Jamestown, and George Campbell, Conneville.

Game Commission Work Expands Into Big Job

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 18.—The work of the Pennsylvania game commission has become a far-flung business undertaking, costing more than $1,500,000, according to Executive Director Seth Gordon.

Commenting on the improvements of the commission during the past two years, Gordon said that land holdings for public hunting grounds and refuges were increased from 750,000 acres to almost 1,000,000 acres—largest increase in any previous two-year period.

"We acquired title to 183 tracts of land in 34 counties, totaling over 51,000 acres," Gordon said. "These purchases brought the aggregate of land owned by the commission to 59 of 67 counties to 650,000 acres. At the end of December we also had under contract for purchase more than 44,000 acres."

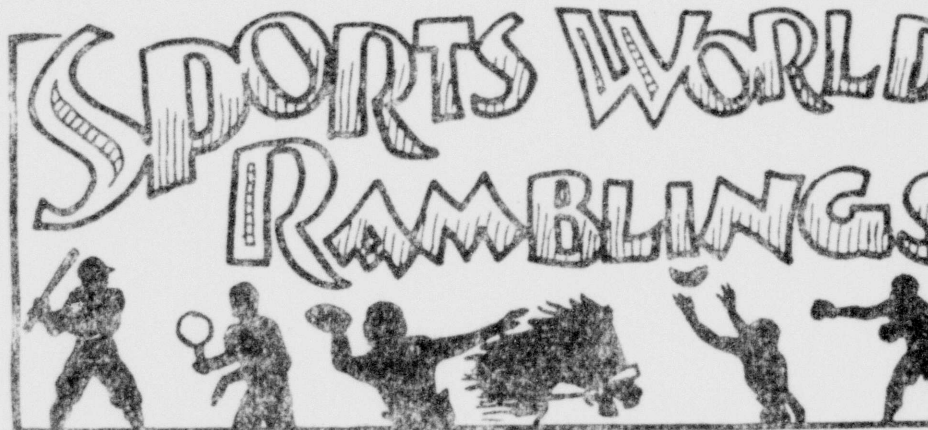

Gordon explained that the expansion of land holdings enabled the commission to add 33 primary game refuges, 246 refuge units on its new cooperative farm-game projects, 42 propagating areas from which to transfer stock to replenish depleted areas, and more than 1000 safety zones posted around buildings on farmsteads where the owners have leased the hunting privileges to the commission.

"Much of the improvement work on the state game lands," said Gordon, "has been accomplished thru W. P. A. labor and other work-relief agencies. More than $2,000,000 has been spent on W. P. A. labor." Gordon explained that since January, more than 65,000 rabbits have been released. Field officers soon will release 30,000 mature ring-neck pheasants and 20,000 bobwhite quail.

HOUSE LEAGUE GAME

The Celtics defeated the Tilereth Israel team in a House league game at the Y last night 50 to 16. Scoring stars in the game were Adams Smith and Caldwell.

When John Kimbrough was ready to go to college he insisted that he be given eight years tuition so he could study medicine. On that basis he chose Texas A. & M. over Tulane.

Sport shorts slapped together before shuffling off for Manhattan and the Metropolitan case tourney.

Russ Baxter, whose illustrious amateur ring career was temporarily halted by a finger injury, says he's all set for action again. The blond schoolboy has stepped into the ring 26 times, losing but one scrap.

Turnstile note: More than 2,000 case addicts have already filed into George Washington junior high to view of flopping extravaganza. At this rate, more than 6,000 fans will have seen the colorful City-County event by the time it ends.

Jackie Reider, a Tony Lazzeri-like infielder during his prime, is ivory hunting for the Knoxville club, which has a working agreement with the New York Giants. In his opinion, the popular local athlete has already sent up a couple of not district prospects. Although few persons know it, Reider is reportedly responsible for Paul Minner's trial with the Knoxville brigade. Reider also uncovered Henry Miller West, Homestead catcher, who is in camp with Minner in Tallahassee, Fla.

Ralph H. Gardner, the former New Castle High faculty manager, is a second John Kieran. The popular professor, who has been united with sports for more than two decades, knows most of the answers, particularly about scholastic activities in the district. During spare moments, Gardner always seems to be peering into sport pages. Ralph was on the sidelines for a while

Three Tourney Games Tonight

Three Class B Second Round Games, Tourney Is Popular With Fans

Three more class B games will be played this evening in the city-county basketball tourney at the George Washington High court. The first game will start at 7 o'clock and will find the Saxons meeting the Bessemer Jr. team.

The third game will find the Mustangs and Cain A. C. teams battling, in what should be a lively contest.

The Mustangs eliminated the B. T. W. team in the first round and the Cain team dropped the Johnson-Bronze out of the tourney. This should be an interesting battle.

Bessemer vs Saxons

The first game will see the Bessemer Juniors battling the Saxons. The Bessemer team in the first round bested the St. George Greeks by a very narrow margin. The Saxons defeated the Falcon Reserves.

In the second game on the menu the New Castle Indies, conquerors of the Wilkins A. C. will battle the Plaingrove Boosters, the team that dropped the Milton A. C. in the first round.

Wednesday night in class A the Polish Falcons will make their first tourney appearance by meeting the Fannin team, conquerors of the Junior Ex-Hun Stars in the first round of class A competition. The Wash-Bear will open the tourney Wednesday by meeting the K. Pulaski Reserves.

Angel Defeats Former Griddler

Angel Downs Savoldi In Fourth Round, Using "Bear Hug" Hold

Maurice Tillet of Rheims, France, known in wrestling circles as The Angel came, saw and conquered last night, having thrown Joe Savoldi with a "bear hug" in one minute and 34 seconds of the fourth round.

Joe was the more clever of the pair but The Angel's 276 pounds compared to Savoldi's 210 helped the Angel considerably. About 500 fans witnessed the three matches in The Arena which at times had the fans in a frenzy of excitement.

Bibber McCoy defeated King Kong Kashey in a six round exhibition. It was a good show. Both gave the fans what they paid to see.

In the first match Lord Al Mills won from Walter Conboy 2-0 in 2:21 of the fourth round with a flying drop kick.

The Jefferson A. C. staged the show.

The Iron Dukes, who won 17 of their 19 games this season, tackle Ohio of the same college of New York meets the University of Virginia.

Boston Red Sox Seek New Hurlers

Pitching Is Crying Need Of Manager Joe Cronin And His Boston Sluggers

Lineup Will Not Be Changed Much, Thinks Indians Or Yanks Will Win Pennant

By LAWTON CARVER

(International News Service)

SARASOTA, Fla., March 18.—"The American League pennant should fly over the New York Yankees or the Cleveland Indians after the coming season, with the Detroit Tigers a fair bet to repeat," Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox said today, apparently less optimistic than some of the sideline observers on his chances of pulling his gold-plated powerhouse to the championship.

"We can field and hit," he admitted when presented with this none too startling fact, "but we are taking a gamble on unproved pitching that very well might get much worse before it gets any better."

Need Good Hurlers

He grudgingly puffed a yes that the Sox could get into the race with pitching help, but added:

"Naturally, however, that goes for nearly any club."

As a matter of fact, the Red Sox would have won the American League pennant last season, when the Tigers, Yankees and Indians did their utmost not to win it, but the hurlers finally left the club mired in fourth place after second place finishes behind the Yankees in 1938 and 1939.

According to his own count, Cronin has a total of 19 legitimate mound candidates in camp, from whom he will select 10 for the long grind that begins in April and, on past performances, leads only to frustration for owner Tom Yawkey. This probably won't be his year, but it could be to prove what everybody has been saying that you can build but you can't buy a pennant winner. Having spent a million dollars, including the $250,000 he laid out six years ago to get Cronin for manager and shortstop, Yawkey is committed to going with the talent he has, or can develop, or can get through usual trades. No more wheeling of a satchel full of bank notes, win or lose.

And it is up to his pitchers now.

Made Many Trades

Having traded off some of his throwers since last season, Cronin will be depending on these this year: Lefty Grove, who is near the end of his tether but still good for a turn a week; Jack Wilson, Herb Hash, Maurice Harris, Earl Johnson, Charlie Wagner, Emerson Dickman, all holdovers; Mike Ryba, the one-man team from the International League, who won 24 for Rochester; Joe Dobson, late of Cleveland; and Leslie Fleming, Oscar Judd and Heber Newsome of the coast league. Fleming won 17 Judd 22 and Newsome 23 games last season.

Some of these may go and some others who show so little promise as to be unmentioned here may land on the squad, but the foregoing is an indication of why Cronin insists his team is a gamble. He lacks a well rounded, experienced firing squad.

Against all that the Sox will present a team which last season finished in a deadlock for the club batting title, was second in runs batted in and fourth—three points out of first—in club fielding.

It should do just as well or better this season with the following lineup:

Dom D'Masgio, centerfield, a 301 hitter rated by Cronin as second only to brother Joe D'Masgio as an outfielder, Lou Finney, a 320 hitter or Peter Fox, a 288-hitter obtained from Detroit, in right, Ted Williams, left field, a 344 hitter, Jimmy Fox, first base, 297, Cronin, shortstop, 285; Bobby Doerr, second base, 291;

Jim Tabor, third base, 285; Tom Carey, utility infielder, 323. A notable absentee will be outfielder Roger Cramer, who was traded to Washington.

For catching Cronin is going to bank on Frank Pytlak, who was in and out of Cleveland's 1940 lineup with a .141 batting average. Cronin also has Johnny Peacock, or Jimmy Fox, if necessary. Or even Moe Berg. However, he thinks Pytlak will be all right.

He also thinks Cronin will be all right at short and plans to play himself there. Although he isn't as spry as he used to be, he still can hit, especially in the pinches and slug some.

He hit 24 homers last season, which with 36 by Fox, 23 by Williams, 22 by Doerr, and others by others, gave many a pitcher many a headache.

But to offset the team's excellence in other departments the Red Sox pitching were among the least effective in the league, and may not be any better this season.

Hank Greenberg Classified 1-A

(International News Service)

DETROIT, March 18.—Hank Greenberg, home run king of the American League and stellar outfielder for the Detroit Tigers, has been placed in class 1A by his Detroit draft board. It was announced Monday upon receipt of a report from a Florida draft doctor who examined the baseball player and declared him unfit for military service because of flat feet.

Hank's case, it was announced by Ben O. Shepherd, chairman of his draft board, will be referred to a medical advisory board. The Florida doctor, Grover C. Freeman, recommended that Hank be placed in class 1B which would make him available for limited military service. Should the advisory board find Greenberg fit for service, he probably would be called up early next month as his number is 621.

An announcement by the Detroit board after it held a special meeting, said:

Henry Greenberg has been classified in class 1A, but his case is being referred to the medical advisory board for a report. If that board reports that he is not fit for general military service, the classification will be reconsidered by the board.

Bob Zuppke, Illinois football coach, has rigged up a 14-foot ring in which a blocking free-for-all will be staged twice a week this winter. He believes this will help the Illinois to master blocking. The youths will be supplied with helmets and hip pads.

University of Iowa has enrolled the country's greatest swimming star, Otto Jarets of Chicago, national champion.

City Gets Opinion On Proposed Property Sales

Solicitor Robert M. White presented to city council in meeting in City Hall Monday, an opinion relative to the recent proposal of council that the city take over property here on city tax sales antedating to the school district and county, on which taxes are delinquent.

The opinion said that there is no way that the city can take possession of real estate so as to divest of in any way impair the claims which the school district and the county have against these lots.

After the opinion was read, council adopted a resolution urging that the city solicitor, the county solicitor and the school district solicitor confer and arrange a proposed bill for presentation to the legislature so that properties can be returned to the tax lists.

His opinion follows:
The Honorable Mayor and Council, New Castle, Pennsylvania.
Gentlemen:

At your recent meeting you asked me to furnish you with a proper set-up to dispose of the large number of lots and properties now listed in the name of the City of New Castle.

You must remember in the first place that the Supreme Court has said that tax sales do not convey title so as to divest other liens. Tax sales are only another way of preserving city liens and not a very good way at that, in my opinion, and for that reason I have advised the city for a good many years to file its liens in the Prothonotary's office rather than to have tax sales. In the meantime, the Legislature has so confused the authority for making tax sales that I doubt very much what validity they have.

There is no way that the city can take possession of real estate so as to divest of in any way impair the claims which the school district and the county have against these lots. Further than this, there is only one way by which mortgages can be divested and that is such an expensive way that the city cannot possibly take it.

As to the properties against which the city has taxes or municipal liens, the city can sell the properties at Sheriff Sale, provided it pays all of the costs and all of the school and county taxes, but to do this with the properties against which we have tax sale claims would require an appropriation, I suppose, of $100,000.00.

I do not see that there are ways by which the school and county and city might co-operate to return a lot of these properties to the tax lists, but as the County Commissioners are now collecting the taxes to a large extent for the school district and for many other taxing authorities, it seems to me that we should defer to them. If they will present some valid scheme which will not cost the city any money or too much inconvenience, we ought to go along with it.

Incidentally, I call to your attention the case of the property on Superior and Allen streets, for which the city took a deed in an endeavor to protect its liens and the liens of the school district and county. You tried to sell that property and found that the best bid you got on it would not pay the school and county taxes. I induced the highest bidder to raise her bid $125 and proposed to have that money divided among all of the taxing authorities according to the proportion of their claims against the property.

I prepared an agreement to which the county acceded and I then prepared a petition to have the agreement approved by the court. Mr. Young, solicitor for the school district, has filed an answer to that petition raising a technical objection that municipal liens may not be compromised under the act of assembly which we were undertaking to use in this case.

Mr. Young's technical objection is exactly right, I believe, and I believe further that that act of assembly does not authorize the compromise of any part of city taxes, but, in the hope that we might better the general situation, and believing that a court order would protect the city officers from possible surcharge, I have not objected to these compromises in the past.

The school district has a perfect legal right to take the position which it has, but if all of the taxing authorities take that position, the collection of taxes will be stalemated in a great many cases because the legislature has made no intelligent provision to handle the situation.

I would recommend, therefore, that the city do nothing about any of these matters until some provision is made by the county.

A year ago the county sold a great many properties for taxes, and against the most of those there are city taxes which have not been divested. I feel confident that Mr. McElwaine will work out a legal and expedient method of returning those properties to the tax lists when the redemption period has expired next year. When he does this, I will urge upon you that you do all in your power to make whatever scheme he recommends effective.

Yours very truly,
ROBERT M. WHITE,
City Solicitor.

City Solicitor Gives Opinion On Bond Cost

Says Treasurer's Bond Should Not Cost City More Than $1,000

City council met Monday in the city building where an opinion prepared by City Solicitor Robert M. White was read, in which he said the city treasurer's bond should not cost the city more than $1,000 and that the cost of the bond should be divided equally between the city and school district.

Already the city has received a bill from the bonding company for approximately $4,000, according to Finance Director J. L. Fink.

White said he based his opinion on a decision of the U. S. District Court in a suit brought by the city of Allentown in which the city of Allentown contended that the rate of premium to be paid was not in any way dependent upon the amount of the tax duplicate.

In that case White asserted the court sustained the contention of the city of Allentown and fixed a reasonable rate on the treasurer's bond at $10.00 per thousand. If they were followed out here the city and school district would divide the cost which would make each pay $500.00. It was indicated the city would resist paying the $4,000.

Mourning Doves Cause Of Queries To City Forester

Referring to the article by Owen Fox in The News, about a week ago, pertaining to mourning doves, he has many inquiries about this bird.

Some desired to have an explanation for the strange sound made by this bird as it leaves the ground. This is done by the wings that form in cup fashion, which pound together, resulting in the odd sound. The mourning dove is a relative bird to the passenger pigeon, and during the summer months are to be found in locations where they can gather sticks to build their nests, and not far from the habitation of man.

This bird was held in great esteem by the American Indians, as they believed its mournful cooings were spirit messages from the "happy hunting grounds" of their people, who had passed to the "Great Beyond". These birds lives were held sacred.

Unlike the pigeon, the mourning dove is more particular in its eating.

In the early mornings of spring and summer, these birds can be seen at Gaston park, quite active, gleaming their food from the ground, feeding on insects and other unseen larvae and grubs. When natural food is scarce, they may be found around the feeding stations picking up scratch feed.

Leaders Say Seven Billion Aid Measure Will Pass Next Week

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 18.—President Roosevelt's congressional leaders today advised him that the $7,000,000,000 lease-lend appropriation bill will be on his desk by the end of next week virtually intact.

Senate Majority Leader Barkley, who with Vice President Wallace Speaker Rayburn and House Majority Leader McCormack, called at the White House—said that the measure would be passed by the Senate by March 25. The House begins debate on the huge appropriation bill tomorrow with passage of the lower branch slated for Wednesday. Rayburn said he would force night sessions if necessary.

Barkley said he looked for no serious opposition in the Senate. He asserted that Republican leaders had informed him that there was no organized opposition to the legislation in their ranks.

Meanwhile defense officials advised Congress leaders that U. S. aid to Britain in the next 15 months will be at least three times that furnished during the first 16 months of the war.

Pertumes were originally employed to counteract the offensive odors of burning flesh during sacrifices.

Sentence Two Women In Murder Attempt

(International News Service)

WAYNESBURG, Pa., March 18.—Mrs. Otis Cumberland, 36-year-old Nettle Hill widow and mother of two, and her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Pettit, self-confessed "trigger woman", were sentenced Monday for their part in the unsuccessful plot to murder the wife of Robert Headley, convicted last Friday on similar charges.

The two women confessed they faked a holdup and pumped five bullets into Mrs. Headley last August 12. Today both defense and prosecution counsel asked Presiding Judge Challen W. Waychoff to be lenient in sentencing the women because of the aid they had given in the prosecution of Headley.

Mrs. Cumberland was sentenced to two and one-half years at the state industrial home for women, at Muncy, Pa., and her sister was sentenced to two to four years at the same institution.

Judge Waychoff also recommended that Mrs. Pettit be examined by a psychiatrist because she was easily swayed by her sister. During the trial Mrs. Pettit confessed she fired the shots into Mrs. Headley, who recovered after a long hospital siege, only to take her own life on the eve of her husband's trial.

Headley is under a $10,000 bond pending an appeal for a new trial. He consistently denied having taken any part in the death plot.
